

Competes For Mrs. America:
Mrs. Price Chosen
'Mrs. Pennsylvania'

Mrs. Margaret Price, 30, Snyder'sville, yesterday was named Mrs. Pennsylvania and will compete in the Mrs. America contest to be held in Miami Beach, Fla., April 22 to 29.

Mrs. Price, the wife of Raymond Price Jr., was one of three finalists in the Mrs. Pennsylvania competition.

She was chosen by the Mrs. America Homemaking Council, composed of home economists and representatives of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, on information submitted on contest forms, including recipes, homemaking quizzes and essays.

Mrs. Price, the mother of two children, will receive an expense-paid trip and a one-week visit at Miami Beach during the finals.

She was entered in the contest by the Junior Woman's Club, of which she is a member, at the request of Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Members were asked to nominate a person "who is a good speaker, able to meet important people, good to look at, married and active in club and community affairs."

Mrs. Price is a red head, five feet seven inches tall and weighs 126 pounds. She is also a member of the American Assn. of University Women and the board of directors of the Monroe County Tuberculosis and Health Society.

NEWEST LOOK IN NEW YORK—Riders read their favorite newspapers in New York's subways en route to work after the city's 114-day newspaper blackout ended. Striking photoengravers ratified the contract, ending the blackout. They were the last of the striking unions to accept. (AP Wirephoto)

Means To Negotiate Future
Newspaper Strikes Studied

NEW YORK (AP)—The restless tempo of a great city throbbing with renewed vigor Monday as New York's nine major newspapers shared newsstand space for the first time in nearly four months.

Five and a half million copies rolled off the presses to herald the end of a 114-day blackout. Business circles estimated the cost of the tieup at more than $250 million.

The four morning papers returned to the stands Sunday night. Five afternoon dailies went to press Monday. Back on the job after 16 weeks of idleness were nearly 20,000 newspaper employees.

The shutdown began Dec. 8 with a strike by 3,000 printers of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union.

In editorials, the revived dailies expressed hope that, in the words of the afternoon Journal-American "some better method than prolonged strikes will be found to settle in a sensible manner labor-management disputes that involve the public interest."

There were at least two suggestions before the industry.

In Washington, White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said this is a good time for the industry to consider his plan for a broad study of newspaper economics. He said newspaper management and labor have indicated interest in a suggestion he made during the blackout for an industry-sponsored study of changing economics in the newspaper field.

New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner indicated he may propose a joint labor-management board to carry on a continuing study of newspaper industry problems. The steel industry already has such a formula to try to iron out issues before they lead to a deadlock in collective bargaining.

Wagner praised

Wagner was widely hailed for his role in settling the newspaper blackout. The mayor entered the dispute Jan. 26 as a self-appointed mediator. When he got nowhere, he switched to the role of umpire and on March 7 outlined a $12.63-a-week contract package to extend over two years and to cover increases in wages and fringe benefits.

It was under this basic formula that the ITU printers reached agreement on a new contract March 24, after once rejecting the terms. Some 200 members of AFL-CIO photoengravers Local 1 prolonged the strike another week before they, too, voted a settlement Sunday within the basic $12.63 limit.

The ITU originally struck four papers, the morning Times and Daily News, and the afternoon World-Telegram and Sun and the Journal-American.

Ceased Publication

Under a publishers agreement that a strike against one was a strike against all, the other five major dailies in the city closed. They are the morning Mirror and Herald-Tribune, and the afternoon Post, Long Island Star-Journal and Long Island Press.

which provided protection for the vice president, as permissive legislation. Johnson has said he does not want the full-time surveillance.

Following a pattern set for the current fiscal year, the committee approved $100,000 for this purpose and advised the Secret Service to draw on its other resources if the vice president needs further protection.

To reach a goal of a cut of $10 billion to $15 billion in the President's request for $108 billion in appropriations for 1964, the committee must cut more than 10 per cent.

Most of the cuts in the Treasury post office bill were in requests for new personnel. Even after the reductions, the bill provides $331.8 million more than the appropriations available for the current year.

The $5,997,026,000 is split up this way:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT $1,035,910,000, a cut of $57,320,000 from Kennedy's request but $102,945,500 more than provided in the current year.

POST OFFICE — $13,641,000, a cut of $147,000 from the request but an increase of $552,000 over this year.

PRESIDENT'S OFFICE $13,641,000, a cut of $147,000 from the request but an increase of $552,000 over this year.

MISCELLANEOUS MINOR AGENCIES—$2,475,000, a cut of $115,000 from the request and $9,000 below the current level.

The committee approved only 500 of the 2,999 new permanent employees requested by the Internal Revenue Service but allowed an IRS request for 777 new temporary employees.

Little Effort Made For Cut In Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee poked away at the 1964 federal budget Monday but its efforts at economy lagged far behind the pace it set last week.

The committee clipped $149,816,000 from President Kennedy's requests for new funds for the Treasury, post office and executive office of the President. But the percentage cut was only 2.5 and the amount approved still is $331 million above the amount made available for the current year.

The committee recommended almost $6 billion, compared to $3.6 billion voted for the same departments this year and $6,146,842,000 requested by Kennedy.

About 9 per cent was slashed from the requested Interior Department appropriation last week in the committee's first major action.

The interior bill is scheduled to come before the House Tuesday and the Treasury-post office measure is scheduled to reach a vote Thursday.

Not Savings Less

President Kennedy suggested a cut of $9 million in the U.S. Information Agency budget, bringing to $142.7 million the total he has recommended be cut from his own budget. The net saving is not that large, however, since Kennedy has also recommended some increases since the budget was presented to Congress.

The committee turned down a request for $228,000 to set up around-the-clock Secret Service protection for Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson. The committee said Johnson should be given protection whenever he requested it but it interpreted a 1962 law,

U.S. Intensifies Crackdown On All Raids By Anti-Castro Commandos

Two Hurt As Car Hits Tree

TWO persons were injured in a one-car accident on Legislative Route 4507, Chipperfield Dr., at about 6:15 p.m. yesterday.

State Police of the local barracks said a car driven by Mrs. Hazel Adams, 55 Willow St., East Stroudsburg, left the highway about seven-tenths of a mile east of Route 611, knocked down a mail box and struck a maple tree.

Mrs. Adams and her grandson, Steven R. Singer, 11, also of Willow St., were reported in guarded condition at Monroe County General Hospital.

Both had scalp cuts. In addition, Mrs. Adams had a compound fracture of the lower right leg and the boy had a broken lower left leg.

Damage to the car was estimated at $1,800.

Work Rules Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Supreme Court put in the mail Monday a mandate of an earlier decision that will set off a new flurry of activity in the long controversy over proposed manpower cuts on the nation's railroads.

The expedited delivery of the notice to the lower federal courts in Chicago, probably Tuesday, will wipe out an injunction against the carriers going ahead with work force reductions they have been urging for nearly four years.

In Chicago, a federal judge asked lawyers for the railroads and operating unions to be in U.S. District Court at 10 a.m. Tuesday for an order, apparently involving lifting the injunction.

Five balking unions, representing some 200,000 on-train employees in opposing the job cuts, are ready to respond to the carriers' move by calling a strike. But President Kennedy also is prepared to delay for 60 days either a strike or the effect of the work-force changes.

Kennedy is reported ready to invoke the emergency procedures of the Railway Labor Act, providing 30 days for a presidential board to recommend a settlement formula and 30 days after that for further negotiations.

Peace talks on what the carriers call their "featherbedding" problem, which is their term for continued employment of workers they say are no longer needed, have been virtually suspended during long court litigation.

On March 4 the Supreme Court held that since bargaining on the issue had gotten nowhere the carriers can put their manpower economies into effect and the unions are free to strike.

Waiting Period

The effect of the high court ruling was held up, according to custom, for a 25-day period to allow the unions to seek Supreme Court reconsideration. The unions decided against that course, and the court mandate was sent out Monday. Earlier, attorneys for both sides had been advised the mandate would be mailed last weekend.

The coming showdown will be conducted against the framework of settlement recommendations made Feb. 28, 1962, by a 15-man commission named by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. The commission in general held that the carriers should be allowed to make necessary manpower cuts but should be prepared to provide substantial layoff and retraining benefits.

The commission recommended the railroads be allowed to lop off some 40,000 firemen on freight and yard trains. About 13,000 with low seniority would be laid off, with the jobs of the remainder ended through attrition—that is, workers died, quit or retired.

Stole Car In Stroudsburg:
Pair Arrested In Newark In Slaying Of Policeman

AN ex-convict from Paterson, N.J., who stole an auto and two license plates here last week, will have a preliminary hearing next Monday in Newark, N.J., on charges of slaying a Newark patrolman.

The hearing for Frank Bindhammer, 23, was delayed until next week to give the prisoner time to secure a lawyer.

Police in Newark said Bindhammer shot Patrolman Frank Shannon, 33, with the policeman's gun as they struggled after Bindhammer and his girl friend, Mrs. Marie Del Guercio, 19, also of Paterson, fled from a three-car accident.

According to police, the car in which Bindhammer and Mrs. Del Guercio were riding was stolen from the rear of the Five Point Tavern, 500 Main St., Stroudsburg, last Thursday night. It belongs to Clifford Winters, 342 Race St., East Stroudsburg.

At the time of the crash, police said, the car bore a license plate Samuel Van Gorden, 757 Main St., Stroudsburg's health officer. The car had been parked in a lot on Bank Alley at the rear of the American House.

Police Chief John B. Tretheway of Stroudsburg said last night the pair also took a license plate taken from a car owned by Walter C. Leonard, 726 Ann St., Stroudsburg, from his car, also parked in Bank Alley.

Tretheway said his department is continuing its search for a 1956 blue and white Chevrolet which Bindhammer told Newark police he abandoned in this area.

Tretheway said there was no indication whether the car bore New Jersey or Pennsylvania license plates.

Bindhammer was arraigned Saturday on a homicide charge in the death of Shannon, who was off duty at the time of the shooting.

Mrs. Del Guercio was named a material witness. The pair was arrested in the home of her uncle, Ralph Molinaro, 34, who was charged with concealing a crime. Mrs. Del Guercio and Molinaro are free on bail.

The Newark police force, meanwhile, planned a funeral with highest honors for Shannon, who will be buried tomorrow.

Plans Win Strong Legislative Backing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Intensified U.S. efforts to halt commando raids against Cuba, with their threat of touching off a major conflict between the United States and the Soviet Union, won strong backing in Congress Monday.

There were some dissents by Republican House members.

The crack-down measures mapped at a series of federal meetings in Washington and Miami, Fla., over the weekend were reported to have prompted one Cuban exile group to shift its base of anti-Castro operations to Mexico.

Great Britain reinforced its Caribbean patrol to back the U.S. move against hit-and-run raids, which Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., called playing with nuclear fire.

A group calling itself the Cuban anti-Communist Army announced in Miami one of its boats, headed for Cuba with guns and ammunition, was captured Sunday night in Bahamas waters by British and American craft.

The defense department said no American planes or vessels took part in the seizure.

Raids Decried

In the Senate, the Democratic and Republican floor leaders joined in deploring the refugee raids against Cuba and Soviet ships trading with Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The two leaders, Sens. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said these unauthorized attacks not only are ineffectual but carry the possibility of igniting a major war.

Mansfield said he understands the desire of Cuban exiles to free their homeland, but he said "they can't take the law into their own hands."

"There have been reports that as a result of these raids, Castro, in retaliation, has shot a number of Cubans inside Cuba," Mansfield said.

Castro said over the weekend his armed forces are wiping out rebels operating on Cuban territory. In the past 30 days, he said, his troops have liquidated 60 per cent of the rebel forces. He did not say how large these bands were.

Dirksen said he agrees with Mansfield that the commando raids can "have no effect except to stir up a lot of trouble."

The Republican leader added that the United States should try to find some channel through which the exiles "can use their spirit and determination to free the Cuban people."

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., took the Senate floor to denounce the hit-and-run raids as "completely inconsequential in their military effects" and as the actions of "a hot-headed group of guests in our own house."

Morse said the raids provide justification for the continued presence of Soviet military forces in Cuba and for sterner measures by Castro against the Cuban people.

Aiding The Reds

"The type of raid on Cuba which has been carried on recently is certainly more of a display, built up by publicity and advertising," Morse said, "than a genuine assault on Russo-Cuban forces in Cuba. It does nothing to hurt or diminish those forces. But it certainly gives the Russians a justification for remaining to 'protect' Cuba."

The latest estimates are that Russia still has from 12,000 to 14,000 military personnel in Cuba, including 5,000 combat troops.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said he agrees that Cuban exiles should not be permitted to determine U.S. policy but he said there have been "provocations from the other side"—like firing on U.S. ships and subversive activities in Latin America.

In the House two Republicans criticized the new restrictions on Cuban exiles.

Rep. August Johansen of Michigan called for a halt to what he termed the harassment of anti-Castro refugees who he said "represent the real voice of Cuba."

"Where is our peace-at-any-price policy leading us?" Johansen demanded.

Rep. K. W. Stinson of Washington said the restrictions insure that "Cuban patriots won't be allowed" to help themselves regain freedom.

Syrian Council Sets Curfew To Halt Anticipated Riots

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The Revolutionary Council Monday clamped an 18-hour curfew throughout Syria to halt massive demonstrations by supporters of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Syrians scurried off the streets amid spasms of submachine-gun fire. Worried American and European tourists sheltered in their hotels. Some left in cars for Lebanon.

Troops and heavily armed police fired in the air, beat back thousands of demonstrators with clubs and sprayed them with dyed water.

The marchers, students, workers and others, chanted "Nasser, Nasser, Nasser." It was the second day of demonstrations in defiance of government bans.

Even bigger demonstrations were reported in the northern commercial center of Aleppo.

Submachine-gun fire rattled the streets cleared. There were no reports of casualties.

The curfew permits Syrians on the streets only from noon to 6 p.m. The Revolutionary Council suspended university classes indefinitely.

Cause of the demonstrations was a rapidly growing rift between pro-Nasser elements in Syria and the Ba'ath Arab Socialist party, which rules in neighboring Iraq and has a government majority in the Syrian parliament.

The Nasserites and Ba'athists worked together to engineer the latest Syrian revolution March 8.

British Warship
Detains Raiders

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Backing up U.S. opposition to sneak attacks on Cuba, a British warship moved in on a small Bahamian island Sunday night and captured a group of anti-Castro raiders.

The colonial secretary's office announced in Nassau that 17 Castro fighters had been taken into custody on a small key in the Exuma Island chain, 350 miles from Miami and about 200 miles north of the Cuban coast.

The capture previously had been reported in Miami by the Cuban Anti-Communist Army. Its report said that American and British warships and planes participated in the action.

A Defense Department spokesman in Washington denied, however, that U.S. planes or naval craft were involved in the incident.

HMS Londonderry, a 2,150-ton anti-sub frigate, just transferred from Bermuda to patrol duty in the Bahamas, was reported on the way to Nassau with the captives.

Second Boat Escapes

The Cuban group said that one of its boats, laden with arms and ammunition, had been taken but that a second boat had escaped and was on its way toward Cuba.

In Washington, this statement was issued by the British Embassy.

"Seventeen men who landed Sunday on a cay in the Exuma Islands have been detained by the Bahamas police under the command of Deputy Superintendent Cate."

"HMS Londonderry, bearing the broad pennant of Commodore J. L. V. Martin, DSC, senior naval officer West Indies, is taking on board the men and is bringing them to Nassau."

Rebel action groups which have been attacking Russian ships in Cuban ports claim to be based on islands in the Caribbean and deny that any raids have been launched from U.S. territory.

The organization said if the second craft is taken, "it will have to be taken by force."

Evello Duque, one of the leading anti-Castro fighters in Cuba's Escambray Mountains, reportedly commanded the captured boat. He and the other Cubans were picked up along with cannon and machine guns.

Details Captured

The exile announcement said an American destroyer, another American vessel, a British ship and aircraft took part in the capture. The report said Duque had left Cuba to obtain the armaments and was nabbed on his return.

Meanwhile, an established anti-Castro group, Alpha 66, swore it would continue fighting Castro but would lie low until further strategy was mapped. And there were reports a new commando group, Commandos F. F. Operation Lobo (Sea Wolf), would harass Soviet shipping from bases along the Mexican coast.

A spokesman known as Maj. Leves was quoted by the Miami News as saying the new group has speed boats armed with European 20 millimeter machine guns and recoilless rifles.

However, older anti-Castro organizations said they knew nothing of such a movement.

Lenten Meditation

By Pastor Bruce J. Fox
Seventh-day Adventist Church
Stroudsburg

"Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away."—II Timothy 3:5.

Divorcing religion from life, from reality, from morality is the characteristic sin of our age. Modern idolatry reduces worship to a fetish. As if we could derive virtue and justification before God from mere ceremonialism.

In our Lenten devotions and seasonal pageantry we follow Jesus vicariously to Calvary, but the living Christ is much more concerned that we faithfully follow him in our everyday living. He looks for Christians whose performance is commensurate with their profession.

Our Lord has made it transparently clear that form and ceremony in religion is never an acceptable substitute for strict fidelity to His divine will.

A practical demonstration of a living faith on the part of the centurion, for example, was infinitely more to be desired than the empty profession of the scrupulously religious Pharisees who outwardly appeared righteous unto men but within were full of hypocrisy and iniquity. Their playing-acting was an offense to God.

Jesus rebuked them saying "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and all uncleanness." (Matthew 23:27).

Such religion is reminiscent of the churches of Europe. That continent boasts a profusion of spires, chapels, and "gothicness." Steeples, gargoyles, saints, rose windows, and flying buttresses are to be seen everywhere. Visiting cathedral after cathedral, each boasting its own vaulted aisles, stained glass, carved saints, coats of arms, entombed royalty, and bedecked altars the senses are overwhelmed.

But the nearest thing that we see to devotion to the God who inspired all this are superstitious few who set twisted candles before a gilded saint, and tourists who irreverently drop a shilling, guilden, or weightless franc into the alms boxes.

There is a place for art, for form and ceremony, for pageantry in the worship of our God who commands beauty and order as virtues. It is when these things constitute an end in themselves rather than the means of giving expression to a genuine, heart-felt religious experience that they must be condemned.

God does not confuse rendering of garments with repentance of heart. Neither should we.

190 Farms To Participate In Feed Grain Program

AS OF March 22, farmers in Monroe County had signed up 190 farms to participate in the 1963 feed grain program, Donald Reish, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, reports.

The "intentions to participate" forms show 2016 acres to be diverted from the production of corn, grain sorghum, and barley. The diversion is from base acreages (1959-60 average plantings) of 2839 acres.

'Air' Request For Info On Area Resorts

An unusual request for information about the Poconos—from an aircraft at 10,000 feet over the area—was reported last week by the Pocono Mountains Chamber of and Vacation Bureau.

The request was received on the UNICOM aircraft communication system at Mt. Pocono Airport and was relayed by Mrs. Margaret O'Neill, owner and manager of O'Neill's Travel Service in Mt. Pocono.

The message read: "Request brochures of Pocono Mountain resorts be forwarded soonest to Lawrence Linden Associates, Box 221, St. Clair Shore, Mich."

John E. Calhoun, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and Vacation Bureau, speculated that the person in the aircraft after sighting Pocono Mountains resorts from the air wanted to learn more about the area. Calhoun said ceiling and visibility were unlimited and the temperature was at 75 degrees when the request was received. He added that an assortment of resort brochures was air mailed to Michigan.

Bond Sales In Monroe $111,475

THE U. S. Treasury recently released the figures for sales of series E and H bonds in Monroe, Pike, Wayne and Carbon Counties.

figures on the feed grain program sign-up, Reish said. They may be changed somewhat when tabulations on the sign-up are completed.

19,140 In State

At the close of enrollment on March 22, about 19,140 farms had signed up to participate in the 1963 Feed Grain Program in Pennsylvania. They intend to divert 207,634 acres from the production of corn, grain sorghum and barley.

National program totals through March 7 show 642,835 farms signed up to divert 13,126,000 acres, from base acreages of 34,796,400 acres. Estimated total payments for diverting a acreage on farms signed up amount to $253,813,300 not including price support payments to be made to co-operators.

In general, provisions for the 1963 program follow those for 1961 and 1962 crops by giving feed grain producers an opportunity to participate in the program by reducing acreage and devoting the land to conserving uses.

By participating, they will receive diversion payments and price-support payments (new to the 1963 program), and be eligible to take part in the price-support loan program.

Price support for 1963 to farmers participating in the program will be made available on corn, grain sorghum, and barley partly through loans and purchase agreements and partly through an in-kind payment based on the normal production of the acreage planted this year to one or more of the three feed grains.

Feltham Attending Convention

JUSTIN C. Feltham, 1315 Dreher Ave., Stroudsburg, is attending the 11th Annual National Science Teachers Convention in Philadelphia. The parley closes April 2.

Over 5,000 Science teachers from all parts of the United States and several foreign countries are attending the meetings.

Feltham, Chairman of the Science Dept. of the Pocono Mt. Joint Jr.-Sr. High School, Swiftwater, has had an opportunity to meet with science teachers representing each area of science at the elementary, secondary, and college level, and to visit exhibits of outstanding courses of study from every part of the country.

Also at the convention is the largest exposition of science teaching materials ever assembled at such a meeting. "Science, Science Teaching, and Society", is the theme of the Convention.

Included among the nationally known figures who are addressing the science educators is Dr. Jerome B. Wiesner, Special Assistant to the President of the United States, and Director of the Office of Science and Technology.

Demos Lead In Voter Registration

A TOTAL of 497 Monroe County residents registered to vote in the May 21 primary election during the registration period which closed last night.

Of the total, 260 were Democrats, 228 Republicans, eight independents and one non-partisan. In the same period, starting in December, 160 Democrats changed their registration to Republican, 28 Republicans changed to Democrats and four persons changed their registration to non-partisan.

Eligible to vote in the primary are 12,032 Democrats, 8,169 Republicans, 168 non-partisans, 115 independents and one Prohibition Party member.

Registration will open on May 28 for the November general election.

The total of 20,485 persons eligible to vote in May is slightly more than 50 per cent of the 39,567 persons listed as the population of the county in the 1960 census.

New Refrigerator For County Jail

MONROE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS yesterday approved the purchase of a new 45 cubic foot refrigerator from Lawton Huffman Co., Inc., Marshalls Creek, for $970.

The refrigerator will be placed in the kitchen of the Monroe County Jail.

In other business, the board granted permission for Mrs. Catherine Miller, Monroe County Civilian Defense deputy for administrations, to attend the Statewide Civil Defense meeting in Warren on April 19 and 20.

The commissioners also granted county aid to several persons meeting requirements.

Eastburg Businessmen Plan 'Clean Sidewalks' Campaign

EAST Stroudsburg Businessmen's Association was approved a resolution to aid in the litter problem in the town.

They agreed to keep the sidewalks in front of their business places clean and to contact the borough council to request help in an effort to keep the area clean by enforcing anti-litter laws, and possibly placing additional trash containers on the streets.

The businessmen also urged property owners to cooperate in the task of keeping East Stroudsburg clean.

Mrs. Ann Atwell, president of the association, announced that the Art Center plans to beautify the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad station in East Stroudsburg by painting.

She reported that the station will be leased to the Art Center and the proposed improvements which will be accomplished by the Art Center and other community groups are as follows: repainting, flower boxes and an art crafts exhibit area in a portion of the waiting room.

Mrs. Slack Restaurant Owner

MRS. GLADYS Slack is the new owner of the Pocono Snack Shoppe.

Mrs. Slack, East Stroudsburg, took over the Main St., Stroudsburg, restaurant yesterday following a transaction with Lester Drake, former proprietor.

The restaurant will be called the Ronette Luncheonette and will operate seven days a week.

Mrs. Slack will feature homemade baked goods, businessmen specials and the restaurant's specialty "Devised Crab."

"Fast, efficient service," Mrs. Slack said will be the aim of her new business venture.

GOV. William Scranton yesterday asked the State Senate to confirm two appointments to the board of trustees of East Stroudsburg State College.

The nominees are David Stoddard, Bangor, and Kenneth H. Seabold, Lehigh, RD 1.

Jackson Twp. 'JP' Nominee

GOV. William Scranton yesterday sent to the State Senate the nomination of Howard M. Robertson, Stroudsburg, RD 5, as justice of the peace for Jackson Township.

Even though salaries may not be what one would expect in comparison to other fields, the good teacher finds many other rewards

Teaching Career Month

APRIL has been proclaimed by Governor Scranton as Teaching Career Month. Mayor Joseph Small of Stroudsburg, has also issued a similar proclamation for the community that he serves.

To educate the present 2,087,486 students in the public schools of Pennsylvania, 77,835 classroom teachers, 3,162 supervisors, and 4,442 administrators are practicing their chosen profession.

Each year 6,000 new teachers are needed in Pennsylvania to replace those retiring, leaving the profession, or to fill newly created positions based on population pressures.

The state college and universities prepare 7,500 teachers annually but twenty per cent enter teaching in other states and thirty per cent go into other vocations.

Therefore Pennsylvania has a constant teacher shortage.

To recruit members for the profession 500 Future Teachers of America Clubs with 15,000 members have been founded throughout the state. The PPTA Clubs celebrate their 25th anniversary this year.

What does it cost in dollars and cents to enter the teaching profession? The average basic cost in a state college is approximately $1,000 per year; at a university the costs exceed $2,000 per year.

Over the four years necessary to prepare as a teacher, the cost ranges from approximately $4,000 to $10,000 and the additional year of course work for permanent certification would add another $1,500 minimum.

Even though salaries may not be what one would expect in comparison to other fields, the good teacher finds many other rewards —both esthetic and humanitarian —when practicing their chosen profession.

The Problems Of Water

Too much or too little water!

This is the perplexing paradox portrayed—on a national scope—in many areas of the United States.

Especially in spring. For it's then that some communities begin to experience floods, while others recognize it as a harbinger of drought; a time when water scarcity means curtailing use.

This varied picture—of simultaneous over abundance and parched lands may change the situation if Congress heeds President Kennedy's request for a record $2.6 billion to help develop the nation's water potentials. For in that total are monies for public works projects to be constructed by several federal agencies, including 43 new water resources projects.

In addition, the President asked for comprehensive studies to be made in several major river basins and called for grants to be provided, universities and colleges to stimulate research in the field of water resources.

The Administration's proposal—now embodied in bills being scanned by both House and Senate Committees—has considerably heartened worried water officials and regional planners.

They have been concerned because it has become increasingly difficult for communities to get the water they need, where and when they want it. The situation developed as the nation became "urbanized" causing water supply facilities to become overtaxed in some areas and virtually obsolete in others.

The lack of adequate facilities, coupled with the population and industrial expansion requiring vast amounts of water, means that the nation must take action now to assure plentiful supplies of water for the consumer and the businessman . . . in the home and at the factory.

But, cautions the National Water Institute, all the grand designs for development of new sources, dams and other sorely-needed facilities will amount to mere trickles unless the citizen in the local community recognizes—and understands—the need for them.

In the final analysis, it is the people alone who can help the nation avert a water shortage; only the people can see to it that demand will not overtake supply of water in the future.

This can be done, when members of the local community investigate their water supply and pollution problems, lending support to their local water officials in the planning and programming of future water needs.

Policing The Securities Markets

This week is scheduled to see the release of the first portion of a report by the Securities and Exchange Commission on an extensive investigation of the securities selling industry. This study was authorized by Congress early last year.

One member of the SEC, Manuel F. Cohen, already has said that the report will not present a picture of widespread fraudulent activity like that of the late 1920's and early 1930's which led to establishment of the commission. Sen. Harrison A. Williams, chairman of the Senate subcommittee which will hold hearings on the report, has argued that it "be received and considered . . . in a mature and sober manner."

It is recognized on all sides that some improvements can be made and some abuses corrected in the selling of securities, including mutual funds. Members of the New York Stock Exchange and other exchanges, of the Investment Company Institute, and of the National Association of Securities Dealers in the over-the-counter market believe their industry has done a good job of policing itself. If this needs to be strengthened in some respects by stronger powers for the SEC, there should be no serious objection.

But it is important that readers of news accounts keep a sense of proportion with respect to criticisms that may necessarily be made. These may indicate need for supplemental legislation without implying any basis for distrust of the capital market in general. There is every reason to believe that with very few exceptions the millions of buyers of stocks and bonds in the United States are being fairly and honestly treated.

Age Of Conservatism

The dean of conservative news commentary got his wealth of fame last week when 500 friends packed the Presidential Ballroom of the Statler-Hilton Hotel in Washington to do homage to Fulton Lewis, Jr. on the occasion of his twenty-fifth anniversary as a radio broadcaster. It was a gala affair, but its true significance depended on the long memories which only the oldest members of the audience could supply.

Twenty-five years ago, when Mr. Lewis first stepped to the mike to give a conservative interpretation of the news, you couldn't have found five people, let alone 500, to do honor to any spokesman for right-wing causes.

The depression had rolled over the land, and virtually all the commentators, whether radio or newspapers, were Rooseveltians. Here and there a lone battler for righteousness in the "Fighting Fathers" notion of the Constitution could be found in conspicuous places—a David Lawrence, a George Sokolsky, a Burke Carter. But you could certainly count them on one hand.

Republicanism had barely started to come back; a young fellow named Robert Taft was making his first splash, and Harold Stassen, then a young businessman's dream of a politician, was looming, temporarily as it turned out, on the horizon in Minnesota. But when Fulton Lewis, as the Mutual Broadcasting System's new commentator, began his career in 1938 he must have felt he was pelting a void.

In addition to the ordeal of trying to create an audience for conservatism, a stupendous task, he had one other terrifying thing going against him: his seven o'clock in the evening hour was the time when everybody—well, almost everybody—listened to Amos and Andy.

In his battle to make the American people aware of the destructive dynamic of Communism, Mr. Lewis had, during those first years, the strangest of allies. Virtually the only vocal opponents of Stalin, in the days of the Popular Frontism of the Thirties, were a little group of right-wing socialists on the staff of the New York weekly, the New Leader.

Sol Lewis, Sidney Hook and a few others of the New Leader crowd kept saying that Stalin was a monster, but who was listening? As for the proponents of free enterprise, where were they in 1937? They were still silently licking their wounds after the great Landon fiasco of 1936.

Trying to recall the atmosphere of twenty-five years ago, I think of certain dead people who would have felt themselves honored if they had lived to see Fulton Lewis honored. For instance, there was Benjamin Stolberg, one of the wittiest writers of the time.

Ben never became famous in his own right, but everybody presumed on his incredible knowledge of public affairs. As one who talked out the books which he never got around to write, Ben Stolberg fed every important right-wing commentator and columnist with challenging points for a decade.

The years passed, and the trickles started by the New Leader anti-Communists and such "underground" champions of freedom as Ben Stolberg began to broaden into bigger streams. Frank Hanighen and Felix Morley started a conservative news letter back in 1945 called "Human Events," hoping for a top audience of five thousand people.

Today, "Human Events" has a circulation of ninety thousand, including many key people in Congress and in editorial offices who pass on its influence in geometric progression.

The young started to become interested in traditional American individualism around 1950. It was the decade of the Fifties that saw the emergence of such publications as William Buckley's National Review.

A new student organization came into being, the Inter-Collegiate Society of Individualists, sparked by Frank Chodorov. This group was a reviving conservatism's answer to the old socialist intercollegiate organization, the League for Industrial Democracy, which had been created by Jack London.

Fulton Lewis persisted through the lean years, helping the lonely spokesmen for individualism on little magazines and in exposed outposts and being helped by them in turn. It was a symbiotic relationship in which the current flowed strongly in two directions.

Last week, when a big group turned out to honor Mr. Lewis as a pioneer of contemporary conservative commentary, it was a sign that the "loyal opposition" to New Dealism, Fair Dealism and the New Frontier had truly come of age.

'I Bet It'll Never Get Off the Ground!'

The Pennsylvania Story

Negatims Plague Off The Administration

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Negatims are plaguing the Scranton Administration—to the point of exasperation.

Perhaps the most blatant, most profound negatims is to be found in the billion-dollar budget for Pennsylvania's coming fiscal year that Mr. Scranton is presenting to the Legislature today.

The fiscal monster is one that has been plagued with revenue estimates that aren't coming up to estimates for the current fiscal year; with mandated expenditures beyond anything envisioned in a transition pre-gubernatorial days; and with tax needs at this point that are just about at the breaking point.

But there are other negatims of far lesser degree that are more happenstance than anything else; that just seemed coincidentally to fall due or happen during the Scranton tenure; negatims that would have happened had Democrats continued in office and who would have borne the outright "blame" from the responsibility standpoint as the preceding and current element in power.

That isn't quite the way it has worked though. Democrats went out with the end of the term of Governor Lawrence—with Republicans under the Scranton banner now carrying the flag, and for the most part (inadvertently) will shoulder the "blame" for something that happened before.

To illustrate one of these

"lesser degree negatims":

Motorists of the Keystone State currently are receiving—or have received—their new license plate stickers.

The new stickers—which obviously had to be ordered even before the outcome of the gubernatorial election was known last fall—suddenly are proving to be thorns in the side of not only many an irate motorist but also officials of the State Department of Revenue.

Complaints are being heard of license stickers that won't stick; that have no glue or stickum; that won't stick firmly because the adhesive is dried out or on only half the sticker; stickers that when received are cut or torn in half—etc.

In other words, complaints are mounting throughout the state on the defective stickers—but more important, what to do about them.

One lawmaker last week gave public utterance about some of the complaints from motorists in his legislative area—publicly telling his constituents to paste the defective sticker on the windshield.

That word has spread across the state. But do this and the motorist is opening himself wide open to serious trouble. Both State Police and Department of Revenue officials warn that anything on a windshield other than an inspection sticker is illegal in Pennsylvania.

What then should be done? We checked this with Alvin C. Walker, Director of the State Bureau of Motor Vehicles, who outlined this procedure for those motorists having defective license stickers:

(1)—Write to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles (Department of Revenue, Harrisburg) stating that the sticker is defective—and why—and request a replacement sticker.

(2)—Be sure to give the number on the defective sticker when writing.

(3)—Do not return the defective sticker at the time of writing—the motorist should keep it in his possession as "evidence" until the new sticker arrives, at which time the Bureau will then request return of the defective sticker.

(4)—The new registration card, the Bureau points out, should prove ample evidence of "good faith" in actually having new and proper registration, in lieu of sticker on the license plate.

Exasperating negatims? There are plenty of them, most of which curiously, have just "happened" at this time, but it illustrates the point!

The Allen-Scott Report

Plan Counter-Insurgency For Latin America

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

Washington, April 2—Attorney General Robert Kennedy is adding still another hat to the many he is already wearing.

On the personal request of his brother, President Kennedy, he is taking over the direction of the highly explosive U. S. counter-insurgency program for Latin America.

This covert four-pronged program to fight Castroite infiltration of the Hemisphere calls for:

U. S. help to Latin American nations to set up counter-insurgency forces under local government agencies other than the military.

Rapid and complete exchange of intelligence information on Communist subversion in the Western Hemisphere. Arrangements for air and sea surveillance and interception of Communist agents and saboteurs operating from Cuba.

Encouraging full use of military forces for social and economic development projects.

Justice Department attorneys are now preparing extensive plans to launch this counter-insurgency program at a specially Eastern meeting of defense and security ministers of Central American republics in Managua, Nicaragua.

Scheduled as a follow-up to President Kennedy's highly publicized Costa Rica conference, the ministers' meeting will tackle the task of carrying out the President's pledge to build a "wall of men around Cuba."

Attorney General Kennedy will use this opportunity to display his new hat by sending a high-ranking Justice Department official, probably Deputy Attorney General Nicholas deB. Katzenbach, to represent this country.

His main assignment will be to convince the Central American ministers that Kennedy's counter-insurgency program will protect their countries in the face of Castro's growing boldness.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Infectious Mononucleosis

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

"Doctor, I think I have Mono."

Names of diseases are often abbreviated by patients. Not only does this serve to improve the rapport with their doctor, but the very familiarity seems to allay their anxiety.

"Mono" is short for infectious mononucleosis, which is a disease of rather recent vintage that was quickly translated into popular jargon.

Mononucleosis occurs in relatively young people. Strangely, it is seen more frequently among medical students, nurses and interns in hospitals. This has never been adequately explained.

Mononucleosis was first described in 1920. Since then, more and more cases have been observed in sporadic areas around the country. Small epidemic outbreaks of mononucleosis were often called attacks of "glandular fever."

Early Symptoms

In the early stages of infectious mononucleosis, the symptoms closely resemble those of the common cold, the flu or the gripe. Noticeable is a slight fever, sore throat, swollen glands in the neck and a sense of "feeling awful."

As the illness progresses the glands become more swollen. Even at this time there are no distinct unique, recognizable characteristics of the disease. Sometimes the lower half of the body is covered with a pale rash.

Confused Picture

It must be noted how easy it is to be confused when this complicated disease resembles so many other common ailments.

The disease runs a self-limiting course, usually without any complications. Recovery takes about six weeks.

The unusual duration of this illness is really due to the severe weakness and prostration that go with it. Most patients complain, "I just can't wait to get back to bed after being up for half an hour." Nature has its own ways of imposing the much needed rest which is so valuable in the convalescent period.

Blood Examination

Mononucleosis, when suspected, can be determined by a thorough examination of the blood. A very special test with the euphonious name of "heterophile agglutination" confirms the diagnosis.

Sometimes the test is elusive and must be repeated. Blood studies taken long after the patient is almost completely well may still show some increase of the heterophile level.

The treatment for infectious mononucleosis, or "mono," is rest and more rest. Supportive treatment is given for any special symptoms that may arise.

Lingering Weakness

Although the actual disease lasts from four to six weeks, the sense of weakness may discouragingly linger for months. Recurrences are comparatively rare.

Antibiotics may or may not be used in mononucleosis, depending on the judgment of the doctor. If he does decide to use them, it is not for the treatment of the disease itself.

Resistance Low

Mononucleosis, like so many other diseases, is devastating, so the body's resistance is low. Antibiotics, therefore, are sometimes used to prevent additional infections from invading the already tired body.

Mononucleosis is not a serious or alarming disease. It just needs lots of pampering and your physician's guidance.

Dear Abby

He Wants To Be A Witness!

DEAR ABBY: I am about to become a father for the first time. A friend of mine told me that he was present in the delivery room when his wife gave birth to their child. I would like to witness the birth of our child, also, and my wife is all for it. Our problem is that we are now having trouble with her doctor. He tells us that he does not allow fathers in the delivery room. I have asked my wife to change to a doctor who will permit it, but she is afraid to change doctors now as she is in her eighth month. Does her doctor have the right to deny me privilege of seeing my child born? I think BOTH creators should be on hand at this time.

eye on him for ages. When he took me to the door I didn't want him to think I was a cold fish so I said, "You may kiss me good night if you want to." Abby, he said, "Thanks a lot, but I never kiss a girl on the first date!" I never felt so cheap in all my life. Our club is having a girl-ask-boy dance and I want to ask him. Should I? Or do you think his turning down a kiss was an insult?

DEAR BEV: Ask him. If he refuses, you'll have learned a lesson. If he accepts, you'll have an opportunity to repair the bad impression you made on the first date.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

I've seen funnier April fool gags, but the weatherman's was effective. Lulled by two days of warm weather everybody seems to have left the house in light coats and came shivering home again in the damp chill that sort of snuck up on them.

However, I don't need any external stimulus to be an April fool, or any other month you might care to mention. Partly because I have a built-in, delayed action worrier. For instance, just before bedtime I lost a favorite earring down the sides of the chair.

At the time, it seemed far too much trouble to dig it out, and I went to bed, secure in the thought that it was safe enough where it was. It wasn't until 5 a. m. that I came wide awake with the question "But is it?" Maybe I'd slipped it on the floor. Maybe somebody would step on it.

It wasn't worth losing sleep over but there I was awake so I thought I might as well get it off my alleged mind. Creeping quietly downstairs in the waning light of dawn that makes everything look as if you were seeing it under water, I was down on all fours feeling around the floor when a voice from the stairway made me almost jump out of my skin!

"Mother! What in the world are you doing down there," it asked sternly. Somehow, at that hour in the morning, "Looking for an earring," sounded pretty lame, and I wasn't quick enough to say "April fool!" But I felt like one.

There are other people plagued with the same sort of delayed-action conscience—but as a rule they wake up earlier than I do. Take the woman who meant to call the office on Friday to have a notice put in Monday's calendar, but it slipped her mind.

Bright and early Saturday morning, she brings in her paper, takes one look at Family Fare, remembers the meeting, and calls me on the telephone. Still too dazed from sleep to be indignant, I explain somewhat fuzzily that there isn't a thing I can do about it until Sunday—which is when, she'll call to remind me, because I really don't sleep with a pencil in my hand.

Many Patient Feelers Necessary To Work Addressing Envelopes At Home

By Roberta Fleming Roesch
Since so many of you have written about your interest in addressing envelopes at home, let's take an objective look at how to find this work.

As is always the case in finding work to do at home, the main rule is to be patient, persevering and industrious about putting out all possible feelers that could bring work to you.

Advertise Service
For your first feeler, advertise your service regularly in your local paper. Any way you look at it, the importance of advertising can't ever be underestimated, even though it means an outgo of money before it means an income!

Your next feeler should be a thorough survey of your classified telephone directory. Do this by marking, first of all, all the firms listed under "Direct Mail," "Secretarial Services" and "Advertising Agency" headings. Then telephone each firm and ask to be connected with the person in charge of employment.

Ask For Openings
When you get this person—and keep trying 'til you do—inquire about the possibilities of addressing envelopes at home as a regular job or whenever the firm has an overflow of work to farm out.

Follow up each phone call with a "thank you" note and reminder of your availability.

If this feeler doesn't yield any work, spend a week watching the letters you receive for the type of mail that is obviously sent out as a mass mailing. An-

Junior Choir To Sing For Lenten Vespers

The sixth Lenten Vesper Service in Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg, in the current series of mid-week services will be held tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. Rev. William F. Wunder will deliver his sermon on the theme: "The Perfection of The Cross." John Thomas Krause, a member of the Catechetical Class, will assist in the reading of the liturgy.

Altar flowers will be placed by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse E. Kulp and Mr. and Mrs. John Kulp in honor of their three daughters. Bulletins will be presented by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rowe in honor of the 11th birthday of their daughter, Barbara. Joseph H. Small, Jr., Bernard Jones, John Baabe and Russell Rowe will serve as ushers and Stephen Predmore as acolyte. Mrs. Iona Schaller, Mrs. Dorothy Townsend and Mrs. Lois Sheeley will begin their month of service on the welcoming team in the narthex.

The Junior Choir will sing an anthem: "Christ Went Up Into The Hills Alone" by Bitgood with Richard Manheim at the organ console. Mrs. Erma Doll, Mrs. Hazel Green and Mrs. Margaret Butz are the choir members.

Palm Sunday Confirmation is set for next Sunday at the later service at 11 a.m.

Will Fete Mothers, Seniors

Tonight the Junior Woman's Club will put its best foot forward when they entertain their mothers and members of the Senior Woman's Club at the annual Mother-Senior night with special program and refreshments.

For the meeting, usually one of the biggest of the year, they have moved to the YMCA where the program, featuring the Barber Shop Quartet, will begin promptly at 8 p.m.

Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Ben Grudis, chairman; Mrs. John LeBar Jr., co-chairman; Mrs. Harold Bentzoni, Mrs. John Quaresimo, Mrs. Paul Manix, Mrs. Richard James, Mrs. Andrew Secor, Edmund Arnold, Richard Matlock, James Flanagan, and Daniel McKeegan.

Bunny Hop Friday

A Bunny Hop for grade school children will be sponsored by the Mother's Club of the YMCA on Friday night at 7:30 at the Y.

Altar, Rosary Board

The executive board of St. Matthew's Altar and Rosary Society will meet Wednesday night at 8 in the school auditorium.

Womans Club Favors State Referendum

The board of directors of the Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs went on record at their meeting yesterday afternoon at the Stroud Community House as favoring a constitutional referendum following a report given by Mrs. Claude Leister on the legislative meeting in Harrisburg on March 27 when revision of the state constitution was discussed.

Mrs. Edward C. Hess presided at the meeting when plans were discussed for the county federation meeting to be held April 16 at Glen Brook Country Club at which the club will be hosts.

During February and March 161 children were cared for at the Well-Baby Clinic. It was announced that a child's table and chair are needed. Four coupon stamp books are needed and members were asked to contribute green stamps.

Mrs. Harold S. Pond Jr. reported on plans for a Civil Defense First Aid Course to be given in the Fall. The Woman's Club will be responsible for the birthday party at the county home in September.

Present for the meeting were Mrs. P. K. Emmons, Miss Olive Bond, Mrs. Nelson Beers, Miss Margaret Mutchler, Mrs. Edmund Strickland, Mrs. Frank Weiss, Mrs. Carroll All, Mrs. T. M. Curtis, Mrs. Floyd Bachman, Mrs. I. W. Foltz, Mrs. Elmer Christine, Mrs. Claude Leister, Mrs. Eugene Cawley, Mrs. Gordon Coy, Sr., Mrs. Eli Travis, and Mrs. Harold S. Pond Jr.

Four Couples Seek Licenses

Four couples applied for marriage licenses over the weekend from N. Henry Fenner, Monroe County clerk of orphan's court:

Roy E. Miller and Rose Mary Micholowsky, both of East Stroudsburg; Claude A. Werckheiser, Stroudsburg, and Sadie Lillian Johns, Stroudsburg, RD 2; Donald T. Shimko and Barbara Victoria Shiner, both of Pocono; Coyde R. Lovell, Easton, RD 1, and Irene Amanda Menhennitt, Bangor.

Bake a graham-cracker crust and fill with ice cream, wrap and freeze. Have an ice-cream sauce ready in the refrigerator so you can use this dessert when time is short or when you have unexpected guests.

Fellowship Day In May Is Announced

Plans for the May Fellowship meeting of the Monroe County Council of United Church Women were discussed at the meeting of the Board of Managers at the Delaware Water Gap Methodist Church.

Mrs. John A. LeBar, co-chairman of the commission on social relations, discussed the plans in detail. A luncheon at 12:30 at Pocono Manor will be followed by the service at 12:30 in Manor Hall. Luncheon tickets may be obtained from any member of the board which represents the church societies which make up the council.

Passover Program

A special Passover program will be presented tonight at 8 in the vestry rooms of the Temple Israel at the meeting of the Sisterhood. Mrs. Norman Gelber will read the story of The Passover and Rabbi Bernhard Presler will discuss its religious significance. Passover songs will be sung.

ed by the service at 12:30 in Manor Hall. Luncheon tickets may be obtained from any member of the board which represents the church societies which make up the council.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Tuesday, April 2, 1963

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Don't use express-train tactics where a local speed is required. Keep an open mind and pick up all information available, not one or two opinions. Avoid pretense.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — You may have to spur yourself on now, especially where apathy toward tedious tasks is concerned. You are often a corner, can take the bull by the horns. Fine! But keep calm within.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — There's a tendency now to reject available opportunities before thorough investigation. Look carefully before saying "No." Don't jump the gun, however.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Sum up the probable costs of a planned venture; consider the possible benefits. Is it your "good buy"? Some chance-taking could be worthwhile now. But use good judgment.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Administrative and home duties need extra care. Some adverse influences prevail so steer clear of antagonism and heated discussions. But do emphasize the positive attitude in going after worthwhile objectives.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — "Half-done" and "passable" are not words suited to your efforts. This day's aspects encourage your innate neatness, good taste and high motivation. Consider all pros and cons carefully.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Good planetary influences. Proceed calmly with day's constructive activity. Pick up loose threads, show your resourcefulness. In many ways, but long ago it was simply and impressively indicated that "What is better than being finished?" There is a tendency to validate now. Contentment in your most straight manner.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — The all of your innate audaciousness in putting forth original ideas, in trying to remedy unsatisfactory methods. Shun skepticism.

November 24 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — You can be a front-runner center personality now if you watch your step and put forth best efforts and project hope and confidence. You are in a position to lead, or put telling weight behind a leader.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Some matters will run smoothly, others may need greater effort and better direction. Discriminate between duties and desires. The first are "in a fix," the second can be worked on in due time.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Generally speaking, this is an ordinary day, yet there will be delightful moments to grasp for furthering interests. Do not be lulled through disenchantment with "things as they are."

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with great inner reserves, a vivacious spirit, affability, progressiveness, and occasional stubbornness. Curb imagination when a down-to-earth routine must not be interrupted. You are an excellent promoter, artist, active mentally and physically in whatever you do, are sociable, will aid a needy person or cause promptly, usually anonymously. Remember anniversaries, timely get-togethers. Avoid overtaxing yourself. Birth dates: Charlemagne, Roman emperor and King of the Franks; Hans Christian Andersen, Danish poet.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number is 4 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. They read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Nolan Sentenced To 30 Days

CLARENCE Nolan, 38, of 437 Lincoln Ave., East Stroudsburg, was sentenced to 30 days in jail yesterday after a hearing before Justice of the Peace Harold D. Larson, Sr., on charges of drunk and disorderly conduct.

Nolan pleaded guilty to the charges at the hearing. He was arrested during the weekend when the car in which he was a passenger was stopped at the corner of West Broad and N. Courtland

Counterfeit Bills

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—A Burmese man and a Chinese woman have been arrested for possession of seven counterfeit U.S. $100 bills, press reports said. The U.S. Embassy said a reported $150,000 in counterfeit U.S. bills has been shipped here from Hong Kong, but apparently none is in circulation.

Sts. in East Stroudsburg by borough Police.

The police noted that the car was being driven recklessly.

Yankee Injuries Heavy As Maris Pulls Thigh Muscle

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — The New York Yankee injury woes reached a new high Monday when Roger Maris pulled up lame making a diving catch of a line drive in an exhibition game with the Detroit Tigers.

The injury, diagnosed as a pulled hamstring muscle in his left leg, will sideline the Yankee right fielder at least through the remainder of the spring exhibition schedule.

Hunk Concerned
Yankee Manager Ralph Houk, already greatly concerned by spring injuries and ailments suffered by Whitey Ford, Mickey Mantle, Tony Kubek, Tommy Tresh and Clete Boyer, declared he doubted whether Maris would be able to play in the Yankees' season opener at Kansas City a week from Tuesday.

Maris' injury occurred in the bottom of the fourth inning. The Tigers had runners on first and second with one out when second baseman Dick McAuliffe drove a liner to right center field.

Maris, after a long run, made a spectacular diving backhanded catch, landing heavily on the turf. He rolled over, arose in obvious pain and limped off the field after underhanding the ball back to the infield.

Maris Homered
The left-handed slugger had homered in the top of the fourth to put the Yankees in front 2-0. His catch started an inning-ending double play as Bobby Richardson took the throw at second base before Al Kaline could return to the bag. New York won, 3-2.

Maris is the fifth Yankee regular to be sidelined this spring.

Southpaw Ford, troubled by a sore left shoulder, has missed several scheduled starts and is not expected to be ready by opening day.

Also currently sidelined are shortstop Kubek, who has a damaged muscle in his right arm, and left fielder Tresh, because of a bruised shin.

Mantle is back in the line-up after missing a number of games because of a groin injury. Boyer, out several days with a pulled muscle in his right leg, recently returned to the line-up.

SLIDE, KRESGE, SLIDE—Ed Nevel, first baseman for the Stroud Union baseball team tries to put the tag on Cal Kresge sliding back into first, but Kresge hooks the foot into the bag before the tag. Coach Wilmont Smith looks on.

Mets Seen Improved In '63; They Might Win 50 Games

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Bad news for all true Met fans! The club is going to be better this year. The stumbling, fumbling have-nots of the world no longer can point to the Mets and mumble "at least, I'm better off than they are."

Last place probably is safe for at least one more year. But that old club record of winning only 40 games is sure to go. They may top 50.

Casey Stengel, an unaccustomed loser, is back for another term at the age of 73, neglecting his banking duties to dispense philosophy, advice and Stengelese to all who will stop and listen. If there is a better salesman for baseball—and the Mets — he has escaped attention.

Fish Commission Plans To Stock Less Fish In 1964

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Fish Commission voted Monday to cut the number of trout it stocks in Pennsylvania streams by 40 per cent during the 1964 fishing season.

Albert M. Day, executive director of the commission, said the cutback was necessary because of "reduced income" expected to be available during the 1963-64 fiscal year.

Day said the commission will stock the streams with approximately 2,750,000 trout during the 1963 fiscal year—450,000 of which come from federal hatcheries. However, he said funds would not be available to continue the program on such a level next season.

Day said even if the commission received legislative approval for a license and boating fee increase, "the first benefits to be derived would not come until April a year from now"—too late for the stocking program next year.

The commission has been stocking between two million and 2.5 million trout over the last five years.

It allocated a little over $700,000 from its $2.35 million budget this year for its "propagation and distribution" program.

Day estimated approximately the same amount would be spent in fiscal 1963-64 on the program. But he said more money would have to be spent on such items as maintenance and repair of equipment and the rehabilitation of the hatcheries.

In an associated development, Robert J. Bielo, 39, East Petersburg Twp., Lancaster County, was named as assistant executive director of the commission at an annual salary of $11,000.

He replaces Dr. Albert S. Hazard, 62, who retired. Bielo has been with the commission since 1950 and most recently has served as a fishery manager for the Susquehanna River region.

Moore Quits LaSalle

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Donald (Duke) Moore quit unexpectedly Monday as LaSalle College basketball coach.

He gave no reason for resigning, but friends said he was disturbed by student and alumni reaction after he was hanged in effigy Feb. 14 when his team lost to hometown rival, Penn. after 10 straight victories.

Moore had been at LaSalle five years, coming here from Duquesne University where he coached the court team for 10 years.

Moore's teams, since 1958, won 79 games, lost 37. His last squad, with a 16-7 record, played in the National Invitation Tournament in New York but was eliminated in the first round by St. Louis University.

E. S. Ladies Bowl Tonight

THE EAST Stroudsburg Ladies League will bowl tonight at 6:45 at Harmon's Recreation.

The Square Bar will battle Hermans Shoe on lanes one and two; Parades Beach and Town Tavern will go on three and four, and the Eagles and Weichels Buick on five and six.

Pee Wee Hoop Night Set At S. U.

PEE WEE basketball night is set for Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Stroud Union High School Gymnasium. Fred Fetherman, president of the Varsity "S", has announced.

Three teams representing Stroud Union's elementary schools and three teams from outlying school districts will compete.

All elementary school children will be admitted free if accompanied by an adult.

YMCA To Give Life Saving Test

THE FINAL life-saving program before the summer will begin at the Monroe County YMCA Thursday.

The program for junior and senior life-saving will be run the same night, which will be held on Wednesday after the opening session this Thursday.

Tom Gross will be the instructor for the standard 17-hour course. Anyone who cannot attend the first meeting can begin the next Wednesday. This will be the last time the course will be offered before the summer, so that applicants who pass the course this time can be certified for summer jobs.

Brite Star Date Is Changed

THE FIFTH annual Brite Star dinner at East Stroudsburg State College has been moved up from May 11 to May 7 because of conflicts with ESSC social events, it was announced yesterday.

Tickets can be obtained from Brite Cleaners in Stroudsburg and are $2 for adults and $1 for children.

All Brite Stars—local athletes who have won recognition through a Brite Star award—are to be guests at the dinner. Their coaches and school principals will also be guests. Dr. Eugene Powers is the principal speaker, and Bob Clark of the Daily Record is toastmaster. Ed Sommers will be program chairman.

Palmer Not Too Confident

AUGUSTA, Ga., (AP) — There are two big worry wrinkles in Arnold Palmer's brow as he prepares to go after an unprecedented fourth Masters golf championship here this weekend.

His driver, the bulwark of his game, has lost some of its zing, he contends, and the men he must beat are a much stronger threat than they were a year ago. The tournament starts Thursday.

"Everybody seems to be playing better and I'm not playing as well," the 33-year-old defending champion from Latrobe, Pa., lamented Monday. "Unless I get cracking off the tee, I'm afraid I'm going to be in trouble."

"I'm not driving as well as I'd like," he said. "It's not accuracy that's bothering me so much. I must be getting old. I don't seem to be getting the distance I used to."

"These younger fellows are hitting them so far that I'm getting a complex. They've got me thinking I'm going the other way."

Palmer, who has won three of the last five Masters and missed the other two by the combined margin of three strokes, said there were at least half a dozen players who were hitting the ball so well that they blunted any confidence that he might hope to build up.

"Take Gary Player," Arnold said. "This fellow has had a great winter tour. I've never seen him play better. Jack Nicklaus has a year's added experience and that means he will be a lot tougher."

"Then there are a lot of other fellows who are driving the ball a country mile and playing excellent golf with it. Take Tony Lemma. He's hitting the ball as far as Nicklaus. Bobby Nichols hits a long, high drive that should go well on this course and he is an exceptional putter on good greens."

"Remember, I said Dow Finsterwald would be tough last year, and he was, finishing in the year with me and Player. He's still very solid. You can't write off Gene Littler and Phil Rodgers."

"I wish I could say I was confident, but I can't. It's going to be a real toughie."

Pa. Grid Coaches Unite

JACK GREGORY, head football coach at East Stroudsburg State College, has been named vice president of the newly-formed Pennsylvania State College Football Conference Coaches Association.

Other officers of the 14-college organization are Chuck Godlasky of Slippery Rock, president; George Kachmer of Millersville, secretary-treasurer.

The group has started a campaign to increase football publicity in the conference, and they plan to make a motion to the heads of the colleges at their meeting Sunday to hire a man for football publicity.

The group has voted to accept NCAA policies with the exception of the two-point conversion rule in football. They want free substitution in games.

Pocono Major Action Slated

THE POCONO Major Bowling League rolls tonight at 6:45 at the Colonial Lanes.

Lawson's Automotive battles Pocono Pump on nine and 10; Happy Hour Tavern and Star Furniture have at it on lanes 11 and 12; Faber's Gift and Faber's Dairy go on lanes 13 and 14 and Beaver House and Stroudsburg Furnace go on lanes 15 and 16.

Exhibition Baseball Results

The New York Yankees defeated Detroit 3-2 in exhibition baseball Monday, but the victory was a costly one because of an injury to slugger Roger Maris.

Maris suffered a severely pulled muscle in his left leg while making a tumbling catch of Dick McAuliffe's line drive. A club spokesman said Maris probably would be lost to the Yankees until after the opening of the American League season next week.

The play occurred in the bottom of the fourth inning at Lakeland after Maris had homered in the top of the inning to put the Yankees ahead. Detroit had two on with one out when McAuliffe connected. Maris raced far to his right in right field, dived for the ball, and made a tumbling backhanded catch. He managed to throw the ball to second base to complete a double play, then hobbled off the field.

The Los Angeles Angels, who top the exhibition standings, won their 16th game in 23 starts by defeating Houston 5-1 at San Jose, Calif., behind the four-hit pitching of Don Lee and Julio Navarro.

San Francisco's Giants, National League champions, ended a seven-game losing streak by edging Cleveland 4-3 at Santa Barbara. In other games, Cincinnati defeated Kansas City 4-1 at Bradenton, Pittsburgh blanked Minnesota 3-0 at Orlando, Baltimore downed the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-1 at Vero Beach, Philadelphia nipped St. Louis 5-4 at St. Petersburg, the Chicago Cubs drubbed Boston 13-3 at San Bernardino and Washington whipped Milwaukee 4-2 at West Palm Beach on Jim King's two-run triple in the 10th inning.

Robin Roberts pitched a four-hitter for the Orioles against the Dodgers. A single by John Herrnstein, a triple by Tony Taylor and a wild pitch gave the Phillies the tying and winning runs in eighth.

Bob Friend yielded only four singles in going the route for the Pirates against the Braves. Don Blasingame and Gordie Coleman each got three hits for Cincinnati as the Reds handed the A's their sixth straight defeat.

Tom Haller's two-run homer in the fourth backed up fine pitching by Juan Marit had to give the Giants their victory over the Indians.

Lou Brock banged out four hits, including two doubles and a triple in leading the Cubs' 15-hit attack against the Red Sox.

ESSC Students Take Honors In Sunday Sports Car Rally

EAST Stroudsburg State College students placed second and third in Sunday's Sports Car Rally, according to George B. Johnson, the rallymaster.

The team of Ivan Shibley and navigator Thomas Burgeon placed second with a Ford while Kenneth Beck and Joseph Drust finished third in their red TR-3.

Taking first place honors in a Porsche 5-90 was Jo Murray and navigator Cliff Murray, of Philadelphia.

Seven of the cars in the rally that was jointly sponsored by the Pocono Mountain Sports Car Association and the Men's Recreation Council of ESSC, were manned by ESSC students. Of the seven ESSC cars, two shared in the winning laurels.

Rallymaster Johnson stated that from the starting point on the ESSC campus, the cars then went to Honesdale where they picked up the route along the old and defunct D & H Canal.

Checking at the points along the canal took the cars to Kingston, N. Y., and then back to Port Jervis, N. Y. The rally ended at Katten's Inn, Port Jervis. A buffet lunch and the awarding of trophies concluded the rally.

TFF Chief Says AAU Broke Rule

HOUSTON (AP)—A Track and Field Federation spokesman says the Amateur Athletic Union has violated one of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's rules recently set down to iron out problems between the AAU and the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Seymour Liberman, counsel for the United States Track and Field Federation in Houston, wrote Boston Marathon chairman Will Cloney asking whether John Macy of the University of Houston could enter the race.

Liberman said, secretary-treasurer Alexander Houston of the New England Association of the AAU answered that Macy "must be a registered AAU athlete" to enter the Boston Marathon.

Senate May Call NFL In Fix Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate sources said Monday National Football League officials are sure to be called as witnesses in a Senate investigation of gambling on sports events.

The Senate investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., is deep in a preliminary investigation of the impact of gambling on the sports world.

The inquiry, designed to determine whether the evidence would merit public hearings, deals at the moment with professional football, college basketball scandals, and the controversy now raging over charges that former Georgia Athletic Director Wallace Butts fed vital information to Alabama Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant before their teams played last fall.

Butts and Bryant have denied the charges, first published by the Saturday Evening Post.

'Bama Team Talks On Fix

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — All-America center Lee Roy Jordan and four of his Alabama teammates testified behind closed doors Monday to a legislative committee investigating charges of a football fix.

Committee members later invited other members of Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant's squad to volunteer any information they might have.

The special Senate-House committee was created by the legislature to look into charges by the Saturday Evening Post that the Georgia-Alabama game last Sept. 22 was rigged. Alabama won 35-0.

The magazine quoted an Atlanta insurance salesman, George Burnett, as saying he overheard former Georgia Athletic Director Wallace Butts, in a telephone conversation, give Georgia secrets to Bryant a few days before the game.

Both Butts and Bryant have denied the charges, although they said they did talk about changes in football rules. Butts has filed a $10 million libel suit against the magazine; Bryant has demanded a retraction, which under Alabama law frequently is the forerunner to legal action.

One by one, Jordan and the other Alabama players — guards Jimmy Sharpe and Jimmy Wilson and ends Richard Williamson and Bill Battle—talked with members of the legislative committee in executive session.

They declined to comment afterward.

Boxer Tries Painting

ROME (AP) — Mickey Walker, the Toy Bulldog, turned to painting after he quit the ring, and produced some fairly good pictures.

Hammering Henry Armstrong wrote some poetry. So did Lou Nova, the California Yogi man. Rocky Graziano became an actor of sorts and a television personality.

So perhaps it wasn't too surprising when Bruno Tripodi, the former Italian middleweight boxing champion, turned to art when he quit the ring. He took up a new career as a sculptor.

But Tripodi may be the only former fighter even to win an international art exposition. He took the prize at Monte Carlo in Monaco, where he has been living since he quit the ring after Guido Mazzinghi knocked him out in 12 rounds to take his title away.

That was in 1956. Now Tripodi turns out works marked by an expression of deep sadness, widely admired by Italian and French critics.

"I invent the things that I feel within myself," he explained, at an exhibit of his works here.

"I can express with my hands things I could not express with my fists."

Tripodi balls his hard-knuckled hands into fists as he talks, with an intensity reflected in his work.

His prize-winning, life-sized statue of a praying Madonna reflects this deep sadness and intensity, as do many of his statues.

One of the most talked-about things he has done shows a weary, sad-looking Tibetan woman climbing a mountainside with her child bound to her back.

It is of wood, as is the Madonna, which was carved from the entire trunk of a gnarled olive tree.

Tripodi, now 34, was a hard-hitting boxer who scored 20 wins in 29 fights, half of them on knockouts. He knocked out Widmer Mialandri in two rounds in 1954 to win his title.

He started down the hill shortly after, and was knocked out three times in nontitle bouts before Mazzinghi stopped him for the crown. Then he packed it in.

Dan Mooney Scores 728

DAN MOONEY, of Allentown set a new high triple for the Colonial Lanes Saturday night as he spanked the pins for games of 205-246 and a 277 for a big 728 total.

Dan's last trip to the Colonial Lanes he scored a 696 series. Ronnie Stoneback of Hellertown had set the mark of 724 which stood for three years, when he was also rolling in the Delaware Valley League.

Crowes Insurance upset St. Nick's chances of winning the league championship and also insured their own hold of third place.

Losing the first game by eight pins and winning the second by ten, the locals went on a scoring spree as they came up with a 1104 game in the final. Jake Nittel was high for the Crowe team with 210-221-614 total.

Next week Crowe's travel to Easton to bowl Sullivan's Heating.

The Daily Investor

Doesn't Agree

By William A. Doyle
Q. I have just finished reading a book about investments. The author recommends that people purchase stocks when they are attractively priced in relation to their realistic values. He advises against dollar-averaging.

The author stresses that few people have the temperament to continue dollar-averaging for months and possibly years — especially when the prices of their stocks are dropping. What are your comments?

A. Anyone who has been reading this column for any length of time knows what the comment will be. I don't agree with that author.

In my book, dollar-averaging remains the most sensible way for the average person to invest. It is time-tested and much more successful than any method I have seen to date. And, by this time, I think I have looked at just about every possible method of investing or speculating in the stock market.

Dollar-averaging is far removed from the so-called sure-fire methods that some people believe will make them rich. There's risk in dollar-averaging — but much less than in any other method I know of.

One of the best things about dollar-averaging is that it is simple. When you dollar-average, you put a fixed amount of money into the same investment at fixed intervals.

For instance, you might invest $100 in the same stock every month, or any other amount you decide on at any fixed interval you choose.

As a result you buy fewer shares when prices are high and more shares when prices are low. And you get a good average price on all your shares.

Unless the market price of the stock you are buying heads downhill forever, you figure to come out ahead.

Don't overlook the fact that the long-term trend of market prices of good stocks has been (and should continue to be) up. Assuming that you don't pick a real klunker, dollar-averaging pays off.

Certainly, some people don't have the temperament to stick with a dollar-averaging program of steady investing. But more have that temperament than have the ability "to purchase stocks only when they are attractively priced in relation to their realistic values."

Welcome Wagon Remembers Special Family Occasions

Carrying on our community's traditional hospitality,

Welcome Wagon Calls are made when your family celebrates a sixteenth birthday, announces an engagement or the birth of a new baby, or moves to a new home.

When the occasion arises, phone 421-8834

To do that, as the author of that book suggests, requires either real skill or mighty good luck in outguessing the stock market. He can expound his views all he likes. But I'll continue to preach dollar-averaging.

Q. You wrote that, through the "New York Stock Exchange Monthly Investment Plan (MIP, for short)" it is possible to invest as little as $40 a month or every three months in a 1 most any of the stocks listed on that stock exchange. That method of steady investing appeals to me. Can I do it by mail? Where is MIP located?

A. Any investments you make through MIP will be handled at that stock exchange in New York City. So, I suppose you could say it is "located there."

However, you can get detailed information and arrange to invest through MIP at any office of any brokerage firm which is a member of the New York Stock Exchange. Those offices are located all over the country.

After you make the initial arrangements to open an MIP account, everything can be (and usually is) handled by mail.
